

Roma Bible Society to support translation work in many Roma languages

Budapest, Hungary. A new Bible Society focussing on Bible translation in Roma languages was started recently. The goal of the Roma Bible Society is to help make Scripture available in every Roma community. Bible translation is a current need for numerous Romani dialects spoken in Europe and western Euroasia. Roma Bible Society believes that Bible translation can be started by 2025 in all Romani dialects which need translation. Roma Bible Society wants to (help) train and support partner organisations engaged in Bible Translation and Scripture Use projects.

The purpose of Roma Bible Society is to act as a platform for the exchange of information, collaboration between partner agencies and support of the translation and distribution of quality Bible material in all Romani dialects. At the moment there is not one single resource providing all the relevant information about the Roma language situation, about current and planned Bible translation projects, and about the production and distribution of translated Scripture and Scripture-based material. The first project of the Roma Bible Society will be a website where this kind of information will be provided. This resource will serve as a basis for future projects.

More information will become available in the next months. To sign up for our newsletter please visit the website (www.romabiblesociety.org).
